

NANO@NC STATE

Web Site Launch Event

On January 15, 2008, dozens of NC State faculty, students, and staff gathered in the Atrium of Engineering Building 1 to celebrate the launch of a new web site: NANO@NC STATE \(www.ncsu.edu/nano\). The web site is a gateway to nanotechnology research, education, and outreach activities at the university.

Dr. John Gilligan, Vice Chancellor for Research & Graduate Studies (right), joined Nanotechnology Initiative Director Dr. Gregory Parsons in introducing the new web site. The web site's home page was projected on a screen directly behind them.

Dr. John Gilligan discusses the university's support for nanotechnology activities on campus.

Faculty, students, and staff from across the university attended the NANO@NC State web site launch event.

Drs. Jon-Paul Maria and Gail Jones, members of the Nanotechnology Initiative Leadership Committee, listened to the speakers.

Event attendees enjoyed the refreshments.